how far would you go for love for art what would you be willing to change which price might you pay such are the painful questions explored by neil labute in the shape of things a young student drifts into an ever changing relationship with an art major while his best friends engagement crumbles so unleashing a drama that peels back the skin of two modern day relationships exposing the raw meat and gristle that lie beneath the world premiere of the shape of things was presented at the almeida london in may 2001

labute takes us to shadowy places we don t like to talk about sometimes even to think about newsday obsession with surface and secrets runs through this second collection of neil labute s work the shape of things peels back the skin of modern day relationships to ask how far someone might change themselves for love or for art in fat pig a man confronts his friends and his own fixation with hollywood ideals of beauty when he falls for a plus size young woman in a dark dark house and in a forest dark and deep are twin tales of sibling conflict in the first estranged brothers must reconcile conflicting memories after one asks for corroboration of childhood abuse in the second a man s offer to help his sister clear out her cottage brings a terrible confession into the light the shape of things what initially seems a touching study of student romance develops instead into a passionate discussion about the way art feeds on life daily telegraph fat pig as large as helen is the tender heart of the play is easily twice as big variety in a dark dark house labute toys with expectations and takes pleasure in our discomfort the play does lead to a pretty dark place but the ending is not without hope daily mail in a forest dark and deep it is billed as being about sibling rivalry but in fact majors on far deeper dangerous things the yearning to be understood female manipulation and fascinated male disgust at a sister s lurid sexuality the times
